Spring 2010 Workshops

Empathy in an Unempathic World: Self Psychology in Light of New Selfobject Discoveries

Instructor: David MacIsaac, PhD, ABPP

6 Hours: Four 90 minute sessions

This program has been approved for 6 hours of continuing education under the auspices of the New Jersey State Board of Social Work Examiners.

In this managed care, fast-paced and instant cure environment, do we have time for empathy and the gradual development that accrues from such a treatment approach? Come and have a glimpse of Self Psychology, one of the most significant analytic developments since Freud. Learn why empathy is such a radical perspective in understanding and explaining our patient's inner life. Find out why the theory of the self accords so accurately with human experience. Finally, learn about the undifferentiated selfobject transference, a new finding of Crayton Rowe that seamlessly complements Kohut's original theory of the self and offers a breakthrough in our understanding of eating disorders, addictions, suicide, OCD and hyperactivity.

David MacIsaac, PhD, ABPP Co-Director, The New York Institute for Psychoanalytic Self Psychology; Co-author, Empathic Attunement: The Technique of Psychoanalytic Self Psychology; private practice, Englewood, NJ.
